ECE 417 / 617 Group Project Grading

As mentioned in the syllabus, the group project is 50% of your grade. There are three deliverables for the group project:

- demo (20%). As a team, you should demonstrate that your code performs the desired functionality.

- code (20%). Your code should be well-written, clean, well-commented, and integrated into the software application.

- documentation (10%). You should provide documentation sufficient for the software developer(s) that will be taking over your project next year or otherwise. The amount of documentation is up to you and will depend on the nature of the project on which you are working, but there is no need to over-document. In many cases, 1-2 pages will be sufficient.

Grading will be performed jointly by the instructor and, where applicable, the client. Although only the final working system is part of the grade, three milestones are necessary in order to ensure that you are on track to succeed. These three milestones are at one-week intervals, timed to coincide with the last three weeks of class for the semester.
